Acknowledgement

It is often said that “Gratitude is the sign of noble souls”. That’s why we devote this chapter to express our deep gratitude towards those who have supported and guided us to accomplish this eProject successfully.

First and foremost, we appreciate the invaluable assistance that our beloved instructor – Ms. Le Mong Thuy, has offered us. Whenever problems come up, she’ll always be the one that we can count on for solutions. Moreover, there were moments when our team decided to give up our project, and Ms. Thuy gave us a pep talk to keep us back on the track. Therefore, once again, we truly value your dedication and guidance, Ms. Thuy.

Next, it would have been impossible to carry out and complete this project without the collaboration among our team members. Although we have gone through many obstacles during the project implementation, eventually we gained what we aimed at by our hard work, our strong commitment and of course, our brotherhood.

Finally, thanks to Aptech’s eProject assignment, we had a golden opportunity to apply what we have learnt into reality and gain hands-on experience which is essential for our future career.

Chanel

For Virginie Viard's first Métiers D'Art show (and her second for the house overall) the creative director kept the show local at the Grand Palais instead of venturing out to a far flung destination. She is after-all still establishing what her Chanel is—and Chanel is Paris, always. It's also little boucle suits and that famed double C logo, two of the house's hallmarks she leaned into for the pre-collection. The set was modeled after 31 rue Cambon in Paris, Gabrielle Chanel's famed apartment as reimagined by director and former Chanel intern Sofia Coppola. "There is a sort of simplicity in going back to Chanel's ABCs," Virginie Viard explains via press release. "We don't need to do too much. I didn't want the usual long-distance traveling of the Métiers d'art collections; I wanted to stay in Paris. So, we had to think of a new way of doing things." Because, after all, Chanel est Chanel est Chanel.
